Raymond,

Thank you for the update on the edit requests to pmusa.com. It's exciting to hear that the new science website is moving along.

As was discussed when we met with you in early February, Chris and I would like the opportunity to meet again to further discuss your ideas on adding sections to pmusa.com and to learn about your new science site including providing any assistance you may want from our group. These projects are quite interesting and I look forward to learning more your work.

Chris and I are both available at the end of next week (March 13-14) to meet with you in Richmond. Please let us know if you and Roger are available and we can make the arrangements. Thank you and have a great weekend.

-Jessica

Dear Jessica,

We have been focusing on launching our ehcss-science.com website for the past two weeks. Now that is accomplished we can turn our full attention to these edit requests. I will get in touch with you in the next day or so to let you know our timeline for having these reviewed.

Regards,

Raymond

The change requests for the edits to pmusa.com that we discussed in our February 6 meeting are attached. Please share with anyone else that needs to review and get legal review where necessary. Thank you. Feel free to call or email with any questions. Some of the edits we discussed are on hold pending rewrite information and will be submitted when all pieces are ready for review.
